Office: 114 Allen Hall, 578-4867
Office Hours: Tuesdays and Thursdays,
12:00 - 1:30, or by appointment

COURSE DESCRIPTION

In this course, students will read a variety of texts which represent the emergence of an American literature and national consciousness in major writings from the Colonial era to the Civil War. This course will involve students in an investigation of the ways in which factors such as race, class, and region intersect with gender and sexuality in the assigned texts and what those intersections can teach us about literary history, national identity, and social justice. Students will increase their proficiency in textual analysis, literary research, and argumentation skills.

REQUIRED TEXTS

- ❖ The Norton Anthology of American Literature
- ❖ Supplementary readings on Moodle

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

The following is the University's official statement on Academic Integrity: "Academic misconduct includes but is not limited to, cheating, plagiarism, collusion, falsifying academic records, and any act designed to give an unfair academic advantage to the student." (Sec. 5.1, C. of the LSU Code of Student Conduct). For more specifics, see:

<http://www.lsu.edu/judicialaffairs/AI.htm>

I expect all of the work you turn in to be your own. If you submit work to me which I determine to be plagiarized, the work will be turned over to the Office of Student Advocacy and Accountability for possible further sanctions.

DISABILITY CODE

According to our General Catalogue,

The Office of Disability Services assists students in identifying and developing accommodations and services to help over-come barriers to the achievement of personal and academic goals. Services are provided for students with temporary or permanent disabilities. Accommodations and services are based on the individual student's disability-based need. Students must provide current documentation of their disabilities. Students should contact the office early so that necessary accommodations can be arranged.

OTHER STUDENT RESOURCES

If you need assistance at any stage of the writing process for this class (or any other), I encourage you to take advantage of the CxC Center's Writing Support program. It's free to LSU students—simply go to www.cxc.lsu.edu to schedule a free appointment.

Mental Health Services (MHS) offers a range of mental health and other support services for LSU students. I encourage you to contact them at 225-578-6271 or consult their webpage at www.shc.lsu.edu for more information on the services they provide. Other useful phone numbers include the STAR (Sexual Trauma and Awareness) Hotline—225-383-7173 (available 24 hours a day for support, information, and referrals) and the LSU Crisis Hotline—(225) 924-5781 (also available 24 hours a day).

COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND GRADING

- ❖ Daily Participation (10%)—Students will demonstrate competency in written and oral communication through organization, clarity, and consciousness in written and spoken English. Active engagement in the class is key for high participation grades. Completion of QHQs each week in a timely manner will be considered as part of your course participation grade. I reserve the right to dock participation grades for use of cell phones, other electronic devices, or other non-class related activities.
- ❖ QHQs—Once a week, each student will post a 300-word (minimum) Question-Hypothesis-Question (QHQ) articulating a specific analytical question about the reading for that day, then offering one or two hypotheses supported by specific textual evidence, and closing with another question pointing toward further analysis. Post these QHQs on the appropriate Moodle forum by midnight before the relevant reading is to be discussed.

The tone of the postings ought to be conversational. Develop your idea with clarity and simplicity. Be mindful of the public nature of this community of discourse and of the responsibility that entails. Be respectful and generous. Never be personal. Discussion forum postings will not be graded individually; however, my assessment of the general quality of your postings will be included in your course participation grade. The Moodle discussion forum is an important place in which to begin to develop final paper ideas. (Note: You will not receive credit for QHQ's that(a) do not fulfill the minimum requirements as stated above or(b) are late.).
- ❖ Quizzes (10%)—Un-announced quizzes and in-class writing assignments will be given from time to time during class. These may not be made up.
- ❖ Group Presentation (10%)— Students will participate in a group project in which they will give a short (approximately five minutes) presentation on the author being read for that day. Presentations should include a handout for the class.
- ❖ Annotated Bibliography (10%)—As part of the final research project, you will compile a five-entry annotated bibliography on the work of one of the authors we're reading this semester. This annotated bibliography should build toward your final paper.
- ❖ Final Paper (20%)—Students will write an analytical, research paper of 1200-1700 words (~5-7 pages) on one of the works we cover in class, using their annotated bibliography and possibly QHQ writing as starting points. Topics must be pre-approved with preliminary research. The final grade for the paper will include successful completion of paper checkpoints (the topic proposal is an example of such a checkpoint) which will be specified in the assignment sheet.
- ❖ Midterm (20%) and Final Exam (20%)—Twice this semester, students will be tested in an in-class exam covering key content and ideas. We will discuss the format as the exam draws nearer, but expect an in-class essay and quotation identification questions.
